With respect to the Plague, much the same it has done Weeks past, it is computed so of the Inhabitants are dead ; there are 26 sick in the Infirmary, of them are believed to be, on We have lost eight of our contagion ; the rest are well. They began a new Quarantine, which was the first was. M. du Rich Gentleman, died lately though the former Letter to the Imperial Minister from Petersbourg, nevertheless he is still alive that this Ministering the Caar's title of Emperour of all the world. The Intermission of the War to the Marshal of the Duke of Mecklenbourg, is at present at the Imperial Court ; and will not be answered before the Arme Advices that are expected on that day. That amongst the Commissioners Count Hompesch is ad with, he is to negotiate a Marriage between the Prince of Friesland and the King of Daugter : This Minister had on long Audiences of his Prussian in Stockholm say, that Com sported the Troops to com thence, and having with so much Dexterity won all the Forces bout losing a Man, advance him to a reported, that the Dutchy, observed so one of the Inhabitants Complaint against them, silent very cheap in that

This Day the States of Holland adjourned their Assembly, and left undetermined several Matters they had under Consideration. The Farming the Customs Inwards and the fitting out a Fleet to serve next Spring ; the Hundredth and Tax Extraordinary ; and they will resume at their next Session. Paris, Dec. 27. The Conde de Prado, a Nobleman of Portugal, and Grandson of the Marechal de Villeroy, inhabits the Hôtel des Diguises, with his Uncle the Duke of Villeroy : This young Nobleman escaped lately out of Portugal, after an Imprisonment of three Years, his Father not having been able, though Gentleman of the Bedchamber to the King, to obtain his Pardon. His Confinement is said to have been occasioned by his transgressing the King's Orders, requiring that all the Nobility should stop their Coaches upon meeting that of the Patriarch of Lisbon ; whereas the Conde de Prado, upon meeting the Patriarch one Day, saluted him only En passant. Several Merchants in this City, and at Rouen, have formed a Company for re-establishing Commerce with Marseilles and the Levant ; and 'tis said that considerable Sums are actually remitted whither for that purpose. The Duchess of Vendome has written another Letter to the King, giving his Majesty an Account of Madam de Montpensier's Arrival at Bourdeaux, where the Citizens paid her all possible Honours ; that she hoped to reach St. John de Luz, on the Frontiers, by the 7th instant, and to exchange there the two Princesses. The Cardinal de Bissy passing lately through Milan, was presented with a Relick of St. Charles Borromeo, which he designs to give to the Church of St. Sulpice ; 'tis deposited in the mean time in the Abbey of St. Sulpice are to go in solemn Procession to receive it. 'Tis confirm'd from all Hands, that the Plague diminishes considerably in the Gevaudan ; that they are disinfecting the Houses, and observing a strict Quarantine. At Alais but few die of the Contagion, by the good Dispositions of the Bishop of that Place ; but Avignon continues to be very ill treated, as also its Territory.
